Monster Clutch break in instructions

The break in period is for 500 miles, in this 500 mile period you want to heat cycle the clutch material as much as possible. By this we mean that you want to do as much stop-and-go traffic as possible in the first 500 miles, try and avoid long road trips. If you can’t avoid long distance trips then do not count those as break in miles.

We recommend you drive your vehicle to and from work if this commute includes stop-and-go traffic. This will allow you to work the pedal repeatedly with an ample cool down period while you are working or when you get home.

It is imperative that you follow these instructions. This material must be tempered by heat cycling or it will not hold the advertised power. If you have any questions at all regarding your break in period please contact us directly.
